Biographical Note

An American photographer, A. Aubrey Bodine was born in Baltimore, Maryland in 1906. He lacked a formal education as he stopped schooling at the eighth grade, however he studied General Design from 1932-1933 at what is now the Maryland Institute College of Art. Starting in 1920, Bodine worked for the "The Sun", first as a messenger and later assisting photographers in the commercial art department. This is where he experienced photography and the darkroom for the first time. He began his formal photography career at "The Sunday Sun" in 1924 as a commercial photographer. He exhibited internationally before dying in 1970 at the age of 64.
